

India, Pakistan Trade Offers Of Peace Pacts

Neither Expected To be Accepted At Soviet Meeting

TASHKENT, U.S.S.R. (AP) — The leaders of India and Pakistan offered each other a no-war pact today but there appeared to be no prospect either offer would be accepted.

The stumbling block was the two nations' bitter quarrel over possession of Kashmir, the Himalayan state which has had the two nations at war twice since 1949.

President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan offered a no-war pact "once the basic problems facing us are resolved." That was his way of saying Kashmir must be settled first.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India, whose government has repeatedly refused to countenance anything but Indian control of Kashmir repeated his offer of a no-war pact "to improve the totality" of relations with Pakistan. He made no reference to Kashmir.

Kosygin Host
Ayub and Shastri met for the first time since the India-Pakistan war in September at a villa on the outskirts of this Soviet central Asian city. Premier Alexei N. Kosygin of the Soviet Union arranged the summit conference and was its host.

Shastri declared: "The question which we have both to face is whether we should think of force as a method of solving (disputes) or whether we should decide and declare that force will never be used."

Ayub said Pakistan's aims is "to compose our differences with India." Prosperity in both countries depends upon peace — "for us peace is vital." But "underlying problems" must be attacked for "a semblance of peace is no substitute for peace."

The tall, handsome Pakistani leader, dressed in a dark business suit and wool Pakistani cap, walked over to Shastri as he arrived at the villa and extended his hand.

Shastri, wearing a sheet-like dhoti and coat, shook hands. Soviet security was so tight that newsmen could not get within a mile of the meeting place.

Premier Kosygin led the delegations to a second-floor conference room, an Indian source said, and seated them at a large circular table.

With Kosygin were Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky. Ayub was accompanied by Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto and Shastri by the Indian ambassador to Moscow, T. N. Kaul, and other aides.

The first meeting this morning lasted 40 minutes and a Soviet spokesman would say only that issues between India and Pakistan "were discussed in a preliminary way."

Two Elders Expelled

Red Cliff Indians Ask VISTA Girls Back

RED CLIFF, Wis. (AP) — The Red Cliff reservation on the Red Cliff Indians have invited the two domestic peace corps workers they cast off this remote reservation in a war over antipoverty programs.

The 5-2 vote by the tribal council Monday night brought to the month-long feud over the Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) program.

Immediately after it asked the volunteers back the council was asked to expel from the ruling body two Indian elders who had opposed VISTA.

Need Help
The wife of one elder threatened to write President Johnson saying the reservation's income had risen to the point that it no longer needed any antipoverty aid anyway.

"We need help," answered Alex Rove, a former tribal chairman of the 300-member band of Chippewas nestled on the Red Cliff reservation on the wintery shores of Lake Superior.

The two VISTA coeds, Judy Rothman, 20, University City, Mo., and Jill Hunt, 22, Kewanee, Ill., were barred in December in a dispute over value and nature of their work. Indian spectators expressed sympathy and support Monday night as they jammed the small council meeting room.

VISTA officials said last month the two sociology students might be returned here if the council reversed its original vote. There was no immediate comment from Washington today.

Dissenting Vote
The dissenting votes at the monthly meeting in the white frame tribal hall were cast by Alex Gokee, 46, and Henry Bresette, 50, who had padlocked the building to keep out the coeds after the council's original 5-2 expulsion decree Dec. 6.

Spectators presented a petition with 38 signatures calling for removal of two council members for gross misconduct. It did not name them but charged the two members and their wives have released to the press for national publication their own views which were not representative of the

Delta Action Continues

Viet Cong Counters Mission by Allies

By THOMAS A. REEDY
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Large Viet Cong forces struck back tonight at South Korean marines and Vietnamese paratroopers on a search-and-destroy mission near the coastal city of Tuy Hoa, 240 miles northeast of Saigon.

A U.S. spokesman said the allied force, supported by artillery, killed eight guerrillas and captured eight while taking light casualties. This raised the number of Communists claimed killed in the operation to 180.

Air Attacks
The outbreak of fighting shifted attention from the big U.S. paratroop push into the Mekong Delta west of Saigon. The 173rd Airborne Brigade sloshed through the swamps around Bao Trai, 20 miles west of Saigon, but did not come in contact with the main guerrilla elements in the area. One brief skirmish, however, produced casualties on both sides. U.S. spokesmen said the suspension of U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam continued for the 12th day with no indication when orders would come from Washington to resume the attacks. U.S. planes last attacked the Communist north just before the start of the 30-hour Christmas cease-fire on Dec. 24.

As air attacks continued in the south, a Navy Skyraider supporting the 173rd Brigade was shot down by ground fire. The pilot bailed out and was picked up by an Army helicopter, a spokesman said.

The Viet Cong made two small probes in Bien Hoa Province 20 miles northeast of Saigon, overrunning one squad-sized government outpost. The government defenders at another outpost beat off the Viet Cong and took two prisoners.

Coastal Fighting
In the coastal fighting 12 miles south of Tuy Hoa, both sides used chemical warfare. The Koreans employed non-lethal tear gas twice and the Viet Cong attacked with flamethrowers, the spokesman said.

The battle erupted on the fourth day of a joint Korean-Vietnamese sweep dubbed Operation Jefferson.

The Koreans lobbed tear gas into a cave 1,500 yards in a

City Traffic Tangled

New York Transit Strike Leaders to be Jailed for Contempt

NEW YORK (AP) — Union leader Michael J. Quill was arrested today for contempt of a court order forbidding this city's bus and subway strike.

NEW YORK (AP) — With ingenuity and energy, New Yorkers met and mastered the second morning work rush of the four-day-old bus and subway strike today.

Michael J. Quill and eight other officials of two unions were due to go to jail for defying a court order forbidding the day strike, which began New Year's Day.

Supreme Court Justice Abraham N. Geller found the union leaders guilty Monday night of civil contempt for flouting the court injunction the city had obtained to block the walkout of 34,400 bus and subway workers.

Justice Geller, after eight hours of hearing and deliberation, said the union leaders would stay behind bars until "in good faith" they ordered their men back to work.

"The judge can drop dead in his black robes," Quill remarked today. "We will not stop the strike."

The union leader spoke at the site of contract negotiations, with a heavy security detail present. Police said there had been a series of threats by persons outraged by the transportation paralysis.

Meantime, the Commerce and Industry Association revised its $40-million-a-day estimate of the strike's economic impact. "When you consider how many banks, retail stores and restaurants which are affected, and how many stores close early or restaurants which don't open at all, then the figure could run up to $100 million," a spokesman said.

The city obtained the injunction under both the common law and the state's Condon-Wadlin Act forbidding strikes by public employees. The latter law also was invoked last year and resulted in the jailing of several leaders of the strike against the City Welfare Department.

Mayor John V. Lindsay again walked to his office today, a 60-block hike he started before dawn, accompanied by former boxing champion Sugar Ray Robinson and aides.

Then Lindsay broadcast another appeal to the metropolitan area's 15 million residents to stay away from the city unless absolutely necessary.

The auto rush had built up long before, however. By 5 a.m., some two hours before daylight, traffic was heavy on the Queens approaches to Manhattan. Within two hours, Bronx and Queens stations of the New York Central Road were jammed with persons who normally use city transportation to get to work.

"It looks much worse than yesterday," said Traffic Commissioner Henry A. Barnes as

Steelmakers Reluctant to Boost Prices

Bethlehem, Inland Government Boycott Has Others Cautious

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under notice that the government won't do business with the price-boosters, the bulk of the nation's steelmakers showed wariness today about joining the Bethlehem Steel Corp. in its structural steel price increase.

A matching $5 a ton increase by Inland Steel Corp. took effect today, four days after Bethlehem's announcement on price boosts for structural steel framings. A small producer, Colorado Fuel & Iron Corp., posted a $3 increase.

But this was hardly a price parade. Other companies said they were "studying" the question, and giant United States Steel Corp. said that "it may be some time" before it decides what to do.

Government Boycott
In an attempt to dissuade the doubtful firms — and thus perhaps to force price rollbacks by Bethlehem and Inland — top military and civilian officials issued orders calling, in effect, for a government boycott of the higher-priced steel.

There was every indication of

Peace Offensive Due to Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson was expected today to continue his Vietnamese peace offensive, including the pause in bombing the north, long enough to give North Viet Nam what officials here call ample time to decide for or against entering peace negotiations.

Public denunciations of the peace drive as "deceitful and hypocritical" which came from Hanoi Monday are so far not regarded by the U.S. policy makers as decisive. The United States is still awaiting some more official kind of response which presumably would come from the Hanoi government either in a public declaration or through diplomatic channels.

Air Attacks
The suspension of air strikes against North Viet Nam is now in its twelfth day, having begun with the Christmas truce. So far as can be determined no date has been set for resumption.

The whole situation, including the progress of the U.S. peace offensive, is said to be under a daily review by President Johnson and his top advisers with developments measured against the general guideline of allowing ample time for the leaders in North Viet Nam to decide how they want to handle the situation.

Policy makers here are said to be convinced that there is a division in Hanoi between those who would like to find some way to bring the fighting to a close and in effect transfer the struggle for control of South Viet Nam to the conference table and those who favor continuing the war at any cost.

It is also widely believed in Washington that Communist China is putting heavy pressure on the Hanoi government to continue the fight while Soviet policy, so far as it can be brought to bear in Hanoi, is believed to favor a negotiated solution.

Moyers Says Requests From Agencies Cut to Less Than $115 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The of $105 billion to $107 billion for White House predicted today the spending in the current 1966 fiscal year as valid.

Moyers said he has no assessment of what the present budgetary and financial picture might mean in terms of a tax increase. But he did say that agencies of about $125 billion for fiscal 1967, which starts July 1, consideration at this moment have been pared to slightly less than $115 billion up to this point.

He said he does not want to suggest the figure is final because several items of several hundred million dollars each are still in question. He did not specify any of these items, but said they range across the board — through national defense and domestic programs.

Work on the budget, Moyers told reporters, has moved ahead in the past few weeks to the point where the administration no longer is actively thinking of asking Congress to extend the deadline for its submission. The law requires submission of the budget to Capitol Hill within 15 days of the new session. The 1966 session begins Monday.

No Date
Once again, Moyers said no date has been determined for President Johnson to go before Congress with his State of the Union message that spells out the administration program and policies in general terms for the year ahead. But he said the message will be delivered during the first week of the new session.

In recent years, defense spending has accounted for at least half the federal budget. This time, in light of increased expenses of the Vietnamese war, it could go higher. A $60-billion figure for defense has figured in discussion and speculation.

Moyers declined to go into any details.

Revenue Estimates
Revenue estimates for fiscal 1967 are not firm, Moyers told reporters. But they are expected to rise.

While Johnson was at his Texas ranch for a lengthy stay, there were reports that for the present fiscal year federal revenue would be about $66.5 billion. Moyers said today this was a conservative estimate.

The said he regarded a figure apparently due to heat from the first.

Three other tanks exploded. The explosion shattered windows in a radius of 300 yards. Walls of some homes were cracked.

The refinery is owned by the Union Generale Des Petroles. It went into operation in June 1964, and is one of the most modern in Europe.

Two companies of firemen — about 100 men — were dispatched by plane from Paris to help forces assigned from the Lyon area. Special equipment for fighting petroleum fires was dispatched from Paris by highway with a motorcycle escort.

Reinforcements also were sent from Saint Etienne and Marseille.

The Ailing House Easy Way Best for Slick Tile

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: I heartily dislike the color of the bathroom tiles in our apartment. Is it possible to paint them? Being glazed, the surface is very slick.

A: There are two strikes against this. First is the slick surface, as you suspect. Second is the constantly damp, often steamy air. The only chance to insure success involves considerable effort. This is actually roughening the surface of the tile, in order to give the paint a better bond. This calls for rubbing off the surface with sandpaper. Even with a portable electric sander this is hard work. Why not consider covering the tiles with one of the adhesive-backed plastic materials?

Q: The family is increasing, so storage space is decreasing. Have you any plans for building a storage closet in the basement?

A: If you can possibly avoid it, don't keep fabrics, leather goods or books in the basement, and especially in a confined space. Even in dry basements mildew can appear. In order to promote air circulation, at least have the door and walls of perforated material, such as pegboard or even screen. Or install one of the rod-shaped electric heaters which keeps the air warm, dry and circulating. For plans, write to Easi-Build Patterns, Briarcliff, N.Y.

Q: I have heard that before I can paint my galvanized garage roof that I must let the metal weather for at least six months. Another friend said I should wash with vinegar. Is this right? I should think that the paint scientists must have thought up a better way than these.

A: You're right. You can get special primers made for preparing the surface of galvanized metal so that paint will stay on. As you suspected, science has improved considerably over the old-fashioned methods.

Designer Claims Industry Influences Women's Tastes

BY BETTY BROWN

CHICAGO — "Give the lady what she wants" or "give the lady what she should have" is not the heart of the issue at all when she is buying furniture for her home, said designer Henry Glass Monday, speaking at a press luncheon as the 1966 Winter International Home Furnishings Market opened here.

A more accurate phrasing would be, "What would she be likely to be sickest of soonest and discard first?" So she can trot out to buy something worse.

"No where else, except possibly in Canada, does such a situation exist," declared Glass, who heads the design firm of Henry P. Glass Associates and also teaches at the Chicago Art Institute.

"In Europe, people buy the new and better product because it is usually precisely that.

Here, it happens only occasionally—more often the manufacturer has been forced into good design by the influence of well-made imports. One needs only to look at the recent influence of Japanese, Japanese and Yugoslav furniture."

Manipulate Tastes

Left alone, said the designer, the American woman would probably want what she should have in home furnishings, but her taste and preferences have been manipulated by high-powered promotion experts. She has been brain-washed effectively by laundering experts who have graduated from Grey Flannel suits to cashmere and vicuna. Glass went on to label as ember, a famous American expert picked the wrong play because he miscalculated the odds. The situation is worth remembering because it often occurs in play.

West took his top clubs and led a third club for East to ruff. South over-ruffed and led a heart in the hope of getting three heart tricks.

South could go up with the ace of hearts, ruff a heart and lead a trump. He would get to dummy with the ten of trumps to ruff another heart, and would make the contract if the king of hearts fell on this trick.

South's other plan was to try a finesse with the queen of hearts and then ruff a heart and lead a trump and so forth. If the finesse lost, however, South would be down two instead of just one.

South's problem was to pick the right play without seeing all of the cards.

Difficult Choice
Either play works when West has three hearts headed by the king. The finesse is better when West has four hearts to the king, and going up with the ace is better when East has three hearts to the king.

My daughter didn't say or do anything about the way her husband was acting, she just went about her business and didn't even seem to notice. According to a clothing institute, one of the strongest trends of the season in men's clothes has been the rush for patterned slacks, from neat checks and small plaids to big bold plaids and oversize houndstooth checks. These pants, slacks or trousers go very well with plain colored blazers.

though, I can't sit by and let it go any longer. What steps can I take to get some help for these children? Mrs. R.M.

Talk this over with your daughter to learn how she really feels about the way her husband treats her children. It's possible that she has been afraid to interfere, but that with your support, she'll be able to tell him to stop.

Try to determine if he treats the children this way because he's ignorant of better ways to help them learn healthy self-control. If so it's reasonably easy to introduce him to more effective and less brutal methods of discipline that he'll be able to begin using immediately.

If, however, he knows kinder and better ways of handling problems with his children, but refuses to use them, he needs the kind of help available at a mental health service which provides individual and family counselling treatment. Urge your daughter to insist that her husband seek such help, and encourage her to accompany him if she has many conflicts about this. If all else fails and they both refuse to change the way they treat their children and to try to change their attitudes, try to separate the children from them. Your attorney can help you understand the child welfare laws under which you can press charges against them as unfit parents. That's a drastic kind of action to take, but your grandchildren need protection from brutality.

Appointive Posts Backed In Menasha

MENASHA — Councilmen indicated their support Monday for putting both the city treasurer and city attorney on an appointive tenure basis rather than elective.

At the committee of the whole meeting several aldermen asked that the ordinances, which would be changed to the city charter, be put on the agenda for a vote tonight.

It was the first time the city attorney's position was included in the proposal for changing to an appointive basis.

City Treasurer Wilbert Edwards asked the council by letter in November to make his position appointive rather than coming up for re-election every two years.

Ald. Louis Gamme made the proposal last night to include the city attorney's job and pushed for quick adoption at the formal council meeting tonight.

The Sixth Ward alderman said the move would bring more efficient government to the city and added that he would feel more secure with a city attorney on tenure during the coming annexation court struggles.

The aldermen are in the best position to know the kind of a job the treasurer and attorney are doing, Gamme said. He maintained their reinstatement should not be placed at the mercy of the voter.

Presently the city attorney is elected by the common council for a one-year term.

While "pledging to work with the common council, instead of over it," he said "Appleton's leaders must find a way to achieve economic growth without sacrificing educational, public safety or health needs."

"If we continue on our present course of unnecessary spending," Buckley concluded, "we shall soon find ourselves on a financial merry-go-round that can't be turned off."

The other four candidates, who have taken out nomination papers for the mayor's job, are Mitchell, 49, who will be seeking his fifth two-year term; Albert G. Gerhardt, 53, an employ of the John Strange Paper Co.; George Hennessey, 57, who is self-employed; and Edwin N. Petersen, 46, a visually handicapped man who is an employee of the Conway Hotel.

Primary Election
A primary election will be held in March to narrow the field to two candidates. The two top vote-getters will then meet in the regular spring municipal election on Tuesday, April 5.

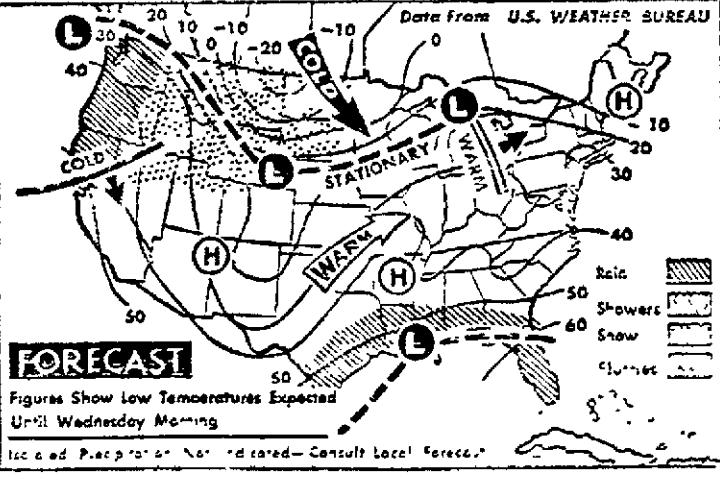

Buckley was born in Chicago March 15, 1916, getting his primary and secondary education there. He attended Northwestern University at Evanston and received his law degree from the Northwestern University School of Law.

He was a U.S. Navy aviator for four years during World War II.

His grandfather was an Appleton native, and his wife, also an Appleton native, is Darlene, the daughter of Mrs. Elmer A. Knoke, 82 River Drive.

Buckley was a Republican precinct committeeman in Chicago, an alderman and an assistant Illinois attorney general serving as chief of the criminal prosecuting division.

After spending his summers in the Appleton area, he moved to the city in 1960. In 1962 he staged a successful campaign for Appleton's 14th Ward council seat. He gave up his council seat early in 1964 to run against Mitchell for the first time. Since then Buckley has remained active in political affairs and was a Republican candidate for the 14th State Senate District seat.

The increase in participation in the program has come later and hasn't been as significant as in past years indicating the favorable employment picture and unseasonable weather which allowed construction to continue to the end of the year.

Shawano County also decreased with 19,859 pounds of surplus food, down 74 pounds, given to 1,156 people, a drop of 16 persons. Oconto County increased 26 persons to 1,112 during the month, but the amount of commodities delivered dropped by 273 pounds to 19,297.

Kentucky Stays Unbeaten

Texas Western Rolls To 11th Straight Win

By HAL BOCK
A trio of city slickers from New York have brought school-yard basketball to cowboy country and nobody at Texas Western minds the infiltration.

The Miners rolled to their 11th straight victory Monday night, whipping Tulsa 63-54 at El Paso. as 5-foot-6 Willie Worsley led the attack with 18 points.

Worsley, reserve forward Willie Cager, and 6-foot-7 Nevil Shed, who says he's an inch taller and is the club's second best scorer, all learned their basketball on concrete courts in New York.

Protect Ranking
The ninth-ranked Miners started slowly but opened a 13-point lead by halftime and then coasted the rest of the way.

Three other ranked teams including Kentucky, the only other undefeated club, also won Monday night.

Adolph Rupp's Wildcats protected their No. 2 ranking with an 80-70 decision over St. Louis. Pat Riley and Louie Dampier paced Kentucky to its ninth straight, Riley scoring 24 and Dampier 20. Rich Parks led the visiting Billikens with 22.

Top-ranked Duke got 25 points from Jack Marin and 21 from Mike Lewis including 10 for 10 from the floor, and rapped Penn State 83-58, at Durham, N.C. The Nittany Lions, who won the Gator Bowl tourney last week, fell behind early and never recovered as Duke ran its record to 10-1.

Bradley, rated No. 5, scored its 11th victory in 12 starts with a 99-52 romp over St. Thomas of Minnesota. Ed Jackson with 21 points and Joe Allen with 20 led the Braves, who shot a sizzling 58 per cent on their home court at Peoria, Ill.

Dayton, 9-1, ripped Xavier 105-79 with sophomore Don May pumping in 45 points, second highest total in Flyer history. Henry Finkel, who scored 44 for Dayton last week, was held to nine, the second lowest total in his three-year varsity career.

Touring Syracuse ran into hot-shooting Creighton and bowed 103-87. Sophomore Wally Andrusas led the winners with 23 including 10 of 14 field goal attempts Syracuse's Dave Bing, averaging 31 points, managed just 20.

Center Valley Wins First Half Pool Title
Center Valley (86-40) won the first half title in the Valley Pool League after winning seven of nine matches in latest action.

Cork and Dine finished second projecting a 'warm image' for with a 81-45 mark and Home Tavern (69-57) placed third.

To Coach Vikings Through '70

Van Brocklin Signs New Pact

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings have begun their second five-year plan in the National Football League by signing Coach Norm Van Brocklin to a five-year contract with a pay raise.

The only coach the Vikings have had, Van Brocklin took a collection of castoffs and rookies in 1961 and moulded them into a respected member of the NFL's Western Division in five seasons.

The Vikings stumbled through 3-11 and 2-11-1 records in their first two years, but show a .500 average, 20-20-1, over their last three seasons.

Van Brocklin quit for 24 hours in November after it became apparent that the Vikings would not win the Western Division title. They eventually finished with a 7-7 record.

But the Viking owners tore up Van Brocklin's three-year contract, which had a year to run and put him under contract through 1970.

"Earned Good Bonus"
Vikings' President Max Winter said Van Brocklin "received and earned a good bonus and an increase in salary."

The old contract called for an estimated $40,000 annually, and the new one figures to place Van Brocklin's salary at close to $50,000.

Both Van Brocklin and Winter said the Vikings' goal is to bring the NFL championship to the Twin Cities.

"We've got the same old policy — to win," Van Brocklin said. "We're looking to win everything we get into. We've had our disappointments, but we're not letting that affect us."

"I still think our offense is good enough right now to win the title, but we need some more consistency on defense."

The Dutchman also said that he was "thankful and grateful for the display of confidence of Vikings' owners."

Cincinnati '5' Downs Hawks

Hairston Stars in Relief; Robertson Scores 36 in Win

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — St. Louis' National Basketball Association home away from home is becoming a depressed area for the low-flying Hawks.

The Cincinnati Royals, sparked by Oscar Robertson, Jerry Lucas and super-sub Happy Hairston, whipped St. Louis 130-114 in Monday night's lone NBA game, giving the Hawks an 0-3 record at Memphis, where they'll play eight home games this season.

The loss dropped St. Louis six games under .500 at 15-21 and into a fourth place tie with San Francisco in the league's Western Division. Cincinnati climbed within two games of Boston's Eastern Division leaders with its third victory in four season meetings with the Hawks.

Hairston, an unsung second-year pro who has been making a habit of coming off the Cincinnati bench to ignite rallies, threw in nine straight points in the final minutes of the first half, giving the Royals a 59-50 lead they never relinquished. The 6-foot-7 New York University alum finished with 20 points.

Robertson scored 37 points, including 18 in Cincinnati's 40-point third quarter, while Lucas collected 22 points and 19 rebounds.

The Royals, however, lost center Wayne Embry early in the game. The muscular pivotman suffered an eye injury in a collision with St. Louis rookie Jim Washington and was taken to a Memphis hospital for treatment.

Court Dismisses Sauldsberry's Suit

BOSTON, AP — The squab- ble over the signing of veteran Woody Sauldsberry by the Boston Celtics has been officially terminated.

U.S. District Court Judge George C. Sweeney dismissed Sauldsberry's suit against the National Basketball Association and all NBA clubs other than Boston Monday.

Attorneys for Sauldsberry and the NBA agreed on the dismissal with prejudice, meaning the suit cannot be brought again.

The NBA refused to approve Sauldsberry's contract when Boston signed him as a free agent last month. Sauldsberry then filed suit, charging the NBA with a conspiracy to prevent him from earning a livelihood as a professional player.

At Judge Sweeney's insistence, Sauldsberry was allowed to play pending a hearing on the complaint and NBA President J. Walter Kennedy eventually approved the contract.

Austerity Program Fosters Ouster of African Leader

Upper Volta President Says He Backed Coup

OUAGADOUGOU, Upper Volta (AP) — The army deposed President Maurice Yameogo today after four days of demonstrations against government austerity measures. Yameogo said the coup had his full support.

Lt. Col. Lamuzana, the chief of staff, announced in a broadcast that he had taken over the powers of chief of state.

He was quickly followed on the radio by Yameogo, who said "Contrary to what one would think, my ministers and I are the first to rejoice with the way things were settled. I am happy that the army chief of staff and his officers were able, in perfect harmony with me, to act in such a way that the country can continue to go forward."

Arrest Demanded
Despite Yameogo's broadcast, crowds gathered in front of army headquarters to demand his arrest and trial. His whereabouts were not known.

Yameogo's chief austerity measure was a 20 per cent cut in the salaries of government employees. For four days crowds had milled through the capital of the little West African nation demanding that the army take control.

The president declared a state of emergency Sunday, claiming that he had uncovered a plot against the government led by Joseph Ouedraogo, a union leader and former president of the National Assembly. Union leaders called a general strike in the capital.

Lamuzana said that the state of emergency would continue in effect and called on everyone to return to work. He said all agreements with foreign countries would be respected.

Marguerite Higgins, War Reporter, Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The frail blonde was a familiar figure on the front lines during the Korean War, usually dressed in slacks, shirt, tennis shoes and a fatigue cap. "I'm not working in Korea as a woman," war correspondent Marguerite Higgins told a general who ordered her out of the war zone. "I am there as a war correspondent."

She got her way and her subsequent front-line reporting earned her a Pulitzer Prize for international reporting in 1951.

Miss Higgins, 45, who died Monday in Walter Reed Army newspaper colleague said of her during the Korean War. Doctors attributed her death to complications apparently resulting from a tropical parasite. Miss Higgins returned last fall from a visit to Viet Nam, India and Pakistan.

Started in 1942
She began her career in 1942 as a summer reporter on the Vallejo (Calif.) Times-Herald. The next year she joined the New York Herald Tribune.

The Herald Tribune sent her to London in 1944. Within months, she was slogging along the Austrian front with the 7th U.S. Army. Dispatches detailing what she saw at the liberated Buchenwald and Dachau concentration camps helped her to earn the New York Newspaper Women's Club award as the best foreign correspondent of 1945.

After World War II, Miss Higgins, then 23, was named the Berlin correspondent for the Herald Tribune. She was transferred to Tokyo and it was from there that she raced into Korea to begin her prize-winning reporting.

Miss Higgins then joined the Long Island (N.Y.) newspaper Newsday and began writing a syndicated daily column. She authored six books, most dealing with American foreign policy.

Miss Higgins was born in Hong Kong and got her early education in France and England. She is survived by her husband, retired Air Force Lt. Gen. William E. Hall; two children, Lawrence, 7, and Linda, 6; and her mother, Marguerite Higgins, Oakland, Calif.

Inter-Irish Feud Turning Into Serious Fish War

WATERFORD, Ireland (AP) — Like many an Irish argument, it started with a goodwill gesture. Like many another, it came to a fight and promises still more fights to come.

The argument is the Irish herding war, in which annually fishermen from Northern Ireland and the republic in the south bombard each other with whatever is at hand, usually bottles.

This year it took a more serious turn. After throwing bottles about, they started throwing the ships about.

Two Northern Ireland skippers, sailing under the Union Jack, claimed their trawlers were rammed Monday by southern skippers to whom the British flag is a symbol of centuries of suppression, not to mention competition.

Warning Salvo
The engagement ended with the 1,020-ton corvette Macha, one-third of the republican navy, firing a warning salvo across the bows of the republican fishing fleet and hauling one of its own citizens off to jail.

The case opens Friday in Waterford Court, with this case appeared and the bombardment started. Bottles, coal skipper of the trawler Ardent, and lumps of lead went flying from boat to boat. ### GOP Primary Expected to be Bitter

Actor Ronald Reagan Announces He Seeks California Governorship

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Film star Ronald Reagan is ready to step onto California's hectic political stage today with the announcement that he will seek the Republican nomination for governor.

Reagan, at a news conference, is expected to spell out publicly what his aides have been saying privately—that he has decided to enter what is likely to be a bitter GOP primary race.

Time has been purchased on 16 television stations throughout California for a showing tonight of a half-hour film in which the 54-year-old star of the television series "Death Valley Days" will disclose his intentions.

His decision to run would pit Reagan against former Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco and Laughlin E. Waters, who has served in the Assembly and as U.S. attorney for Southern California. A San Rafael cosmetics manufacturer, William Patrick, who also has announced his candidacy, is little known in party circles.

Republicans who class themselves as moderates are backing Christopher and Waters. Reagan, 1964 co-chairman of California Citizens for Goldwater-Miller, has the support of GOP conservatives.

Smathers, 52, a Florida Democrat, is the third senator to announce retirement at the end of the current term and veteran Harry F. Byrd, Virginia Democrat, already is out by way of resignation.

Building to Start for 'Project Mohole'

Federal Go-Ahead Given for $108 Million Study of Earth

WASHINGTON (AP) — A full-speed-ahead order has been given to start building the huge ocean-going drill platform for "Project Mohole." It was learned today.

"Mohole" is a $108-million venture by the American government to drill a hole six miles deep through ocean and earth in man's deepest penetration of the planet.

The assault — expected to have a rich scientific pay-off — is scheduled to begin in late 1968 or early 1969, and take about three years.

The project is aimed at getting new knowledge of the earth's origin, structure and minerals — and of how Mother Earth brews her devastating earthquakes and volcanoes.

Floating Platform
Geophysicist Gordon Lill, Mohole project manager for the National Science Foundation, told a reporter a go-ahead order, effective today, has been given the National Steel & Ship Building Co. of San Diego to proceed with the construction of the weird drill device whose floating platform will be bigger than a football field.

Lill said preliminary work on actual construction would include driving some huge pilings into the harbor floor, and tearing away part of a pier to make way for erection of the drill platform. Construction itself will take about two years.

When operational, it will be, in effect, a giant, unanchored raft poised high above the sea and supported by six columns attached to submersible, submarine-like hulls. A 240-foot derrick will rise from the deck. The craft will be strong enough to withstand winds of hurricane force.

Northern Areas Pounded by Snows, Gales

Small Floods Force Evacuations of Oregon Families

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Snow, rain and gale force winds pounded wide sections of the nation today from the Pacific Northwest to northern Minnesota.

Severe cold gripped areas in Montana, Wyoming, the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Gale force winds hammered areas in the Pacific Northwest and precipitation was heavy and widespread, with rain along coastal sections and snow inland.

Heavy snow warnings were in effect for Montana and Idaho, with three to six inches from northern Idaho across most of western and southern Montana. Snow was indicated across northern sections of New England.

Oregon was hit by rain and snow which caused small floods and the evacuation of at least a dozen families. Heavy snow fell on the Cascade Mountains east of the Willamette Valley. The series of recent snow storms has increased the snow pack rapidly in the Cascades. The depth at Stampede Pass, east of Seattle, measured more than six feet.

Cascade Passes
A severe snow storm swept the Yakima Valley in central Washington Monday, closing the Yakima Junior College, many schools and the city's airport. Eight inches of snow fell in Yakima, making a covering of more than a foot. Snow also hit parts of eastern and western Washington and on all Cascade Mountain passes.

Heavy snow also fell in northern and eastern Montana and the mercury Monday failed to rise above zero in some northern cities. The day's high mark at Cut Bank was 15 below. Mild weather for the season-temperatures in the 30s — was reported in the southwest part of the state, but wind gusts up to 80 m.p.h. lashed the area.

Warmer weather was in prospect from northern Texas to the Great Lakes region and continued seasonably cold in the East and in southern areas except warm in Florida.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 19 below zero at Cut Bank, Mont., to 75 at Key West, Fla.

Today's Drop Outs Tomorrow's Minority

reached the point of virtually full employment for family breadwinners and most skilled and semi-skilled workers.

What's more, the figures will underline the great gains made by the U.S. teenagers—for years our worst jobless problem. The teenage unemployment rate, which soared to nearly 18 per cent in 1963 and sank to 12.5 per cent in the Labor Department's last published tally, well may approach its lowest level in eight years.

Jobs For Less Skilled

The very development of shortages of skilled workers in this boom phase is helping the teenager by opening more jobs for the less skilled in the service and durable goods industries. A grim force ironically brightening his job outlook too is the draft call increase—which could siphon off 300,000 or more young men in 1966.

Even the untrained, undereducated high school dropout is a "winner" in job trends today, for jobs now are reaching down into the bottom of the employment barrel (where he lives).

But today's highly heated economy will not last indefinitely. And when the heat cools, the first to be laid off and the last to be hired will be the unskilled youngster. In the words of St. Louis University professor Lucius F. Cervantes in a recently published book "The Dropout—Causes and Cures":

Tomorrows Minority

"The minority of tomorrow—high school dropouts—will have more difficulty climbing out of the basement of their poverty than had the minorities of the past."

Booming though our economy is, the validity of Cervantes' tragic prediction is clearly apparent — here and now — across the U.S.

Despite the improving teenage job pattern, the over-all teenage unemployment rate is still triple the over-all unemployment rate. For high school dropouts, it is more than 25 per cent. double the teen-age jobless rate. There are still 800,000 teenagers who are out of school and out of work.

Despite our surging personal incomes, one in four male dropouts today earns less than $40 a week at his first full-time job, and only about half earn as much as $50 a week. Family income for half of U.S. families headed by a breadwinner who failed to get a high school diploma is $5,300 a year — against $10,600 for families headed by a college graduate.

Education Necessary

Despite the temporary rise in jobs for the unskilled, over the longer range no expansion in job numbers is anticipated for the unskilled labor force. The biggest growth will be in the professional and technical fields demanding a college degree, and the next biggest will be in the semi-professional fields requiring at least one to three years of post-high school education.

In blunt summary, the drop-out's long-term job prospects remain: an unskilled job, low pay, periodic unemployment. And as one authority emphasizes, "His chances for any job leading to a career are just about nil."

We are making major strides in improving vocational training, overhauling our college-oriented high school curricula, adding trained counselors to high school staffs, providing part-time work during the school year. But bigger strides must be made — particularly in vocational education, counseling, on-the-job training.

It would be compounding Cervantes' tragic forecast if we permit today's temporary job shifts to let us falter for an instant in our efforts to train and educate our youngsters to fill tomorrow's jobs.

Year's Earnings For AT&T Total Nearly $11 Billion

NEW YORK (AP)—American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the world's largest shareholder family, Monday reported record revenues and earnings for the 12 months ended Nov. 30.

Revenues hit $10,997,120,000, producing net income of $1,790,116,000, or $3.40 a share. The figures easily surpassed year-earlier figures of $1,648,762,000, or $3.24 a share on sale of $10,226,165,000.

The figures surpassed the previous record levels for a 12-month period, made in the 12 months ended last Aug. 31.

The higher earnings per share came despite an increase in the average number of shares outstanding from 509.3 million in the 12 months ended November, 1964, to 526 million in the 12 months ended the past November.

The company has an estimated 2.6 million shareholders.

Home Builders Hope for End Of Recession

1965 Construction Was Behind '64 in Almost Every Month

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Home builders are hoping that 1966 will see an end to the industry's private recession. A marked pickup is reported in contracts let in November for future construction of residential units, and lenders say that demand for mortgages is picking up.

The government chimes in with reports that housing starts have increased in the closing weeks of the year. And the Department of Commerce adds the prediction that construction spending of all types, including homes, will hit a record pace of $72.7 billion in 1966, compared with $68.5 billion in 1965.

Despite all these hopeful tidings, the home building industry is closing out a year which in many sections of the country trailed 1964 activity in almost every month-to-month comparison.

Behind '64 Pace

Total starts in 1965 will be around 1,490,000 residential units, against 1,557,000 last year. And the pace at yearend, though picking up, is well below the high point reached in the opening weeks of 1964.

The story on a money basis is better than on a tally by units. The industry says this is because new owners were buying more expensive homes this year than last.

Contracts let for residential building in the first 11 months of 1965 were 3 per cent higher than in the like period of 1964. F.W. Dodge Co. reports today. The construction industry information specialists put the 1965 figure at $19,866,649,000, up from $19,287,763,000 in the first 11 months of 1964.

November Improved

Builders note happily that a flashy 14 per cent improvement was reported in November. Residential building contracts rose to $1.7 billion in this latest report, from $1.5 billion in November 1964.

The lending fraternity also has cheerful news this week. Although fretting over the general rise in interest rates triggered by Federal Reserve Board action, savings and loan associations report mortgage lending at the yearend was on the upturn. And so was the savings inflow into these institutions after a period of sluggishness.

The United States Savings & Loan League reports that member associations closed $1.9 billion in mortgage loans this November, up 4 per cent from last year. But for the first 11 months of 1965 the total of $21.9 billion trailed 1964 by $600 million.

Savings Increased

Savers added $2.5 billion to their accounts last month and withdrew $1.7 billion. Both figures topped November 1964 when the inflow was $2.4 billion and withdrawals $1.5 billion.

It's the prospect for increased activity which F. W. Dodge hails as "especially welcome after years, resigned Sunday night to make way for a "younger and more energetic president." Spingarn, 87, walked about two miles Sunday night from his Grammercy Park home to the New York Hilton where 500 persons gathered for the annual NAACP dinner.

Several Steps Needed To Correct Colitis

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes colitis? Do nerves? Does mental depression result? A member of my family has colitis and her two doctors disagree on the treatment. One says eat everything and take allergy to some particular food is involved. Supplemental medication is usually necessary. The essential step is to relieve tensions. If a psychiatrist can help your relative relax, then you can expect improvement.

Why the two doctors? Perhaps this is another indication of tension, and a belief that if one doctor is good, two must be better. However, they are in reasonable agreement with each other — and with me.

Control of pain clearly is necessary because pain will only aggravate tension. They agree on that. And both suggest tranquilizers to subdue tension.

The only difference is in what to eat, and I wonder whether the doctors expressed themselves exactly the way you state it. For we don't often try to be brief and dogmatic about diet for colitis.

The way I'd put it would be this: I wouldn't say "Eat but a Chihuahua, or any other everything." I'd say eat a reasonably normal diet. If there is a hint that some particular food is irritating or has allergic properties, avoid it.

I also believe that it usually helps to avoid highly - spiced foods, but this doesn't mean no seasoning at all. Jus. don't overdo it.

Seedy, fibrous or bran-type foods can be expected to bother a nervous colon. Hence a low-residue diet, but not a strictly bland diet, can be helpful.

Teaching a patient to take life calmly is basic. A "bland life" can help more than a "bland diet."

Diplomat-Historian Named Slavic Fellow At Harvard University

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard University has announced the appointment of George F. Kennan, diplomat and historian, as a university fellow in history and Slavic civilizations.

President Nathan M. Pusey will participate in seminars and give occasional lectures at Harvard while continuing his professorship at the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton, N.J.

Kennan has served as U.S. ambassador in Moscow and Belgrade.

He is 60 years old and has asthma.

Several people have told me that if I get a Chihuahua, it will cure the asthma. My husband won't get the dog until you answer. This is very important to me.

Of course this is important — but a Chihuahua, or any other kind of dog, isn't going to cure asthma. How this notion got started, I can't imagine. Asthma is a breathing difficulty caused by contact with some irritant or over-sensitized tissues. Tell your husband, Mrs. K.B., that you've decided it's smarter to have a doctor start hunting for the cause of the asthma than to depend on a rumor, however popular, that a Chihuahua will cure anything.

Note to Mrs. A.D.: It is true that fibroid tumors sometimes shrink after a woman reaches menopause; your doctor's advice to wait and watch makes sense.

India, Pakistan Trade Offers Of Peace Pacts

Neither Expected To be Accepted At Soviet Meeting

TASHKENT, U.S.S.R. (AP) — The leaders of India and Pakistan offered each other a no-war pact today but there appeared to be no prospect either offer would be accepted.

The stumbling block was the two nations' bitter quarrel over possession of Kashmir, the Himalayan state which has had the two nations at war twice since 1949.

President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan offered a no-war pact "once the basic problems facing us are resolved." That was his way of saying Kashmir must be settled first.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India, whose government has repeatedly refused to countenance anything but Indian control of Kashmir repeated his offer of a no-war pact "to improve the totality" of relations with Pakistan. He made no reference to Kashmir.

Kosygin Host
Ayub and Shastri met for the first time since the India-Pakistan war in September at a villa on the outskirts of this Soviet central Asian city. Premier Alexei N. Kosygin of the Soviet Union arranged the summit conference and was its host.

Shastri declared:
"The question which we have both to face is whether we should think of force as a method of solving (disputes) or whether we should decide and declare that force will never be used."

Ayub said Pakistan's aims is "to compose our differences with India." Prosperity in both countries depends upon peace — "for us peace is vital." But "underlying problems" must be attacked for "a semblance of peace is no substitute for peace."

The tall, handsome Pakistani leader, dressed in a dark business suit and wool Pakistani cap, walked over to Shastri as he arrived at the villa and extended his hand.

Shastri, wearing a sheet-like dhoti and coat, shook hands.

Soviet security was so tight that newsmen could not get within a mile of the meeting place.

Premier Kosygin led the delegations to a second-floor conference room, an Indian source said, and seated them at a large circular table.

With Kosygin were Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky. Ayub was accompanied by Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto and Shastri by the Indian ambassador to Moscow, T. N. Kaul, and other aides.

The first meeting this morning lasted 40 minutes and a Soviet spokesman would say only that issues between India and Pakistan "were discussed in a preliminary way."

Delta Action Continues

Viet Cong Counters Mission by Allies

By THOMAS A. REEDY
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Large Viet Cong forces struck back tonight at South Korean marines and Vietnamese paratroopers on a search-and-destroy mission near the coastal city of Tuy Hoa, 240 miles northeast of Saigon.

A U.S. spokesman said the allied force, supported by artillery, killed eight guerrillas and captured eight while taking light casualties. This raised the number of Communists claimed killed in the operation to 180.

Air Attacks
The outbreak of fighting shifted attention from the big U.S. paratroop push into the Mekong Delta west of Saigon. The 173rd Airborne Brigade sloshed through the swamps around Bao Trai, 20 miles west of Saigon, but did not come in contact with the main guerrilla elements in the area. One brief skirmish, however, produced casualties on both sides. U.S. spokesmen said the suspension of U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam continued for the 12th day with no indication when orders would come from Washington to resume the attacks. U.S. planes last attacked the Communist north just before the start of the 30-hour Christmas cease-fire on Dec. 24.

As air attacks continued in the south, a Navy Skyraider supporting the 173rd Brigade was shot down by ground fire. The pilot bailed out and was picked up by an Army helicopter, a spokesman said.

The Viet Cong made two small probes in Bien Hoa Province 20 miles northeast of Saigon, overrunning one squad-sized government outpost. The government defenders at another outpost beat off the Viet Cong and took two prisoners.

Coastal Fighting
In the coastal fighting 12 miles south of Tuy Hoa, both sides used chemical warfare. The Koreans employed non-lethal tear gas twice and the Viet Cong attacked with flamethrowers, the spokesman said.

The battle erupted on the fourth day of a joint Korean-Vietnamese sweep dubbed Operation Jefferson.

The Koreans lobbed tear gas into a cave 1,500 yards in a band of Chippewas nestled on the Red Cliff reservation on the back of the two domestic peace corps workers they sent to this remote reservation in a war over antipoverty programs.

The 5-2 vote by the tribal council Monday night brought little peace, however, to the 10-year-long feud over the Voluntary Service to America (VISTA) program.

Immediately after it asked the VISTA workers to leave, the council was asked to expel from the tribe two Indian elders who had opposed VISTA.

Need Help
The wife of one of the peace corps workers, Mrs. Johnson, said the reservation income had fallen to the point that it no longer needed any antipoverty aid.

"We need help," answered Alex Johnson, a former VISTA worker, after the tribal council's decision.

The two VISTA coeds, Judy Rothman, 20, University City, Mo., and Jill Hunt, 22, Kewanee, Ill., were barred in December in a dispute over value and nature of their work. Indian spectators estimated 100 and supplied Monday night as they jammed the small council meeting room.

VISTA officials said last month the two sociology students might be returned here if the council reversed its original vote. There was no immediate comment from Washington today.

Dissenting Vote
The dissenting vote at the monthly meeting in the white frame tribal hall were cast by Alex Johnson, 46, and Henry Brice, 50, who had paroled the building to open out the coeds after the council's original 5-2 expulsion decree Dec. 6.

Speakers presented a petition with 38 signatures calling for removal of two council members for "gross misconduct." It did not name them, but named. The two members and their wives have released to the press for national publication on their own views which were not recorded in the expulsion decree Dec. 6.

City Traffic Tangled

New York Transit Strike Leaders to be Jailed for Contempt

NEW YORK (AP) — With ingenuity and energy, New Yorkers met and mastered the second morning work rush of the four-day-old bus and subway strike today.

Michael J. Quill and eight other officials of two unions were due to go to jail for defying a court order forbidding the day employees. The latter law also strike, which began New Year's Day.

Supreme Court Justice Abraham N. Geller found the union leaders guilty Monday night of civil contempt for flouting the court injunction. The city had obtained to block the walkout of 34,400 bus and subway workers.

Geller delayed execution of his jailing order until today, 11 a.m. EST.

Quill had declared he would "rot in jail" before ordering an end to the crippling strike.

Justice Geller, after eight hours of hearing and deliberation, said the union leaders would stay behind bars until "in good faith" they ordered their men back to work.

"The judge can drop dead in his black robes," Quill remarked today. "We will not stop the strike."

The union leader spoke at the site of contract negotiations, with a heavy security detail present. Police said they had been a series of threats by persons outraged by the transportation paralysis.

Meantime, the Commerce and Industry Association revised its $40-million-a-day estimate of the strike's economic impact.

Negro Is Mayor Of Ohio City

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Robert C. Henry, a Negro, became mayor of Springfield Monday night and called it a great moment for his race.

The City Commission, like Springfield's population four-fifths white, unanimously installed Henry, 44, as its presiding officer — mayor — for the next two years.

Outgoing Mayor M. K. Baach, now a private citizen, predicted that Henry "will do a most adequate job."

Henry, a funeral director, was winding up a four-year term on the five-member commission last November when re-elected. He received the largest vote of any candidate for the three commission seats at stake.

With the city under a commission-city manager government, Henry's duties as mayor are chiefly ceremonial.

Steelmakers Reluctant to Boost Prices

Bethlehem, Inland Government Boycott Has Others Cautious

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under notice that the government won't do business with the price-booster, the bulk of the nation's steelmakers showed wariness today about joining the Bethlehem Steel Corp. in its structural steel price increase.

A matching $5 a ton increase by Inland Steel Corp. took effect today, four days after Bethlehem's announcement on price boosts for structural steel framings. A small producer, Colorado Fuel & Iron Corp., posted a $3 increase.

But this was hardly a price parade. Other companies said they were "studying" the question, and giant United States Steel Corp. said that "it may be some time" before it decides what to do.

In an attempt to dissuade the doubtful firms — and thus perhaps to force price rollbacks by Bethlehem and Inland — top military and civilian officials issued orders calling, in effect, for a government boycott of the higher-priced steel.

There was every indication of

Moyers Says Requests From Agencies Cut to Less Than $115 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House predicted today the new federal budget will be $110 billion to $115 billion — certainly not less than $110 billion.

The White House press secretary, Bill D. Moyers, said original requests from government agencies of about $125 billion for fiscal 1967, which starts July 1, have been pared to slightly less than $115 billion up to this point.

He said he does not want to suggest the figure is final because several items of several hundred million dollars each are still in question. He did not specify any of these items, but said they range across the board — through national defense and domestic programs.

Work on the budget, Moyers told reporters, has moved ahead in the past few weeks to the point where the administration no longer is actively thinking of asking Congress to extend the deadline for its submission. The law requires submission of the budget to Capitol Hill within 15 days of the new session. The 1966 session begins Monday.

No Date
Once again, Moyers said no date has been determined for President Johnson to go before Congress with his State of the Union message that spells out the administration program and policies in general terms for the year ahead. But he said the message will be delivered during the first week of the new session.

In recent years, defense spending has accounted for at least half the federal budget. This time, in light of increased expenses of the Vietnamese war, it could go higher. A $60-billion figure for defense has figured in discussion and speculation.

Moyers declined to go into any details.

Revenue Estimates
Revenue estimates for fiscal 1967 are not firm, Moyers told reporters. But they are expected to rise.

While Johnson was at his Texas ranch for a lengthy stay, there were reports that for the present fiscal year federal revenue would be about $96.5 billion. Moyers said today this was a conservative estimate.

The said he regarded a figure

Butane Tanks Explode

30 Persons Believed Dead in French Blast

LYON, France (AP) — An estimated 30 persons were feared dead or missing today after five butane gas tanks exploded at a refinery and storage farm 12 miles south of Lyon.

At least 75 persons with burns were admitted to Lyon hospitals.

Officials evacuated residents of the area, fearing that three other nearby storage tanks would be set off by the searing heat.

The Ministry of Interior in Paris said two engineers and five firemen were reported missing.

A Lyon photographer said he had been about 100 yards from the first tank when it exploded. He was severely burned about the face and hands. He said that a number of firemen and employees of the plant had been ahead of him when the explosion occurred.

Under Control
The Ministry of Interior in Paris said that the fire was apparently under control, but officials said that the remaining three storage tanks were endangered by heat and flames that could pass along underground pipes.

The fire broke out in the Feyzin Refinery early today and spread quickly to a storage tank.

Security officials attempted to control the blaze and called on fire departments from Lyon and two nearby villages. Fire hoses were directed on the burning tank, but suddenly a second tank caught fire and exploded,

Heffernan Is Sworn in for 10-Year Term

Justice for State Supreme Court 2nd From Sheboygan

MADISON (AP)—Justice Nathan Heffernan was sworn in Monday for a full 10-year term on the Wisconsin Supreme Court where he has served as an appointed member for about 18 months.

Heffernan, a native of Sheboygan, was escorted to the installation ceremony by Sheboygan County Judge John Buchen, a former law partner of the 45-year-old justice.

Heffernan was appointed to the Supreme Court in 1964 by former Gov. John W. Reynolds to fill a vacancy created by the death of Justice William Dieterich. Heffernan then was serving as U. S. attorney for Wisconsin's western district.

In April, 1965, Heffernan was elected to a full term. The post pays $24,000 a year.

Governor Attends

Justice Thomas Fairchild administered the oath in a ceremony in the court chambers. Well wishers included Gov. Warren P. Knowles, Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, and Heffernan's wife, Dorothy, and their three children.

In a response, John Walter, president of the Sheboygan County Bar Association, noted that Chief Justice George Currie also is a native of Sheboygan. Walter said the double representation on the seven-member court distinguished the city as a community that fosters "judicial temperament."

Heffernan is a former city attorney of Sheboygan and district attorney of Sheboygan County. He served as deputy attorney general from 1959 to 1962 while Reynolds held the post of attorney general.

Two Airlines Report Passenger Increase

Outagamie Airport Boardings in December Almost 2,000; Decline in Winnebago Traffic Continues

Both airlines serving the Fox Cities — Air Wisconsin and North Central — today reported significant increases in passenger volume at the Outagamie County Airport for December.

Figures released by the two airlines show they both have had steady monthly increases since August when the new airport opened and the Fox Cities began to receive service from two commercial carriers. The Winnebago County Airport, on the other hand, which receives service only from North Central Airlines, suffered its fourth straight month of decreases in commercial passenger volume during December. Total passenger usage at the Winnebago airport in Oshkosh has dropped by more than 1,000 passengers from August, when there was no Air Wisconsin and the old Outagamie airport was in use, to December.

1,901 Boardings

During December, 1,901 passengers used the Outagamie airport facilities — 1,000 on Air Wisconsin and 901 on North Central. North Central edged out Air Wisconsin on passengers originating flights in the Fox Cities, 547 to 539; however, the Appleton-based commuter airline had a wide edge over its competitor in incoming business, 461 to 354. In total, 1,086 passengers boarded flights at the Fox Cities airport and another 815 ended their flights there.

Boardings were up 79 more than November. Total volume was up 58 passengers.

Local aviation authorities expect the December record of passenger volume at the Outagamie airport to be shattered during January. North Central began serving the Fox Cities with Convair aircraft on New Year's Day. The Convair has twice the capacity as the old DC3s which had served the Fox Cities previously. In fact, there were 35 passengers reservation on one of North Central's flights today — the largest number for one aircraft in the history of Fox Cities aviation.

Acquire Third Craft

In addition, Air Wisconsin just acquired a third DeHavilland Dove. The aircraft can now provide sections for the busiest flights, and it increases the Appleton airline's passenger potential significantly.

North Central's monthly report for the Outagamie airport shows that business volume is nearing one year ago when there was no Air Wisconsin competition. Here is a breakdown of the report (with totals from December of 1964 in parenthesis):

Originating — passengers, 547 (624); mail, 3,413 pounds (2,606); express, 578 pounds (1,370); and freight, 11,947 pounds (19,660).

Monthly Report

Incoming — passengers, 354 (445); mail, 2,954 pounds (1,207); express, 1,326 pounds (1,960); and freight, 11,947 pounds (19,660).

Boardings, Mail Up Despite Fewer Flights

North Central Volume Rises at Clintonville Airport

CLINTONVILLE — An increase in the boarding of passengers, mail, express and freight was shown for December over a year ago by North Central Airlines at the Clintonville Municipal Airport, even though there were 26 less departures.

There were only 72 departures last month, compared with 98 a year ago in December. Ninety passengers boarded, three more than the 87 a year ago, and 77 passengers departed, eight more than the 69 last year.

Air mail boarded amounted to 1,128 pounds last month, up 409 pounds from the 719 pounds a year ago, and departed, 84 pounds, down 262 pounds from the 346 pounds of December, 1964.

Air express boarded was 8,282 pounds, up 655 pounds from the 7,627 pounds boarded a year ago; and departed, 1,689 pounds, down 545 pounds from the 2,234 pounds off a year ago.

Air freight boarded last month was 6,278 pounds, up 745 pounds from the 5,533 pounds a year ago; and departed 3,155 pounds, up 711 pounds from the 2,444 pounds a year ago.

Incinerator for Appleton Likely

Regional-Type Operation Likely Within Few Years

Appleton is likely to construct a municipal incinerator and abandon its present landfill operation within a few years, Public Works Director Robert W. Bues predicted today.

And Bues also disclosed during a meeting of the city plan commission that Neenah and Menasha have indicated interest in a regional-type incinerator to be utilized by all three communities.

"Everything is in the talking stage but there is every indication Appleton will have an incinerator in operation five years from now or sooner," Bues said.

The incinerator became injected into commission discussion when a letter was received from an Appleton resident offering to sell property between the city disposal plant and Chicago and North Western Railway Co. tracks to the city for $70,000.

Possible Location

Bues was asked of what value it might be to the city and indicated as a second choice for an incinerator plant site. "I have a better site in mind but we haven't pinpointed any definite one yet," Bues told the commission.

Bues said informal conversation with several aldermen led him to believe the incinerator would be constructed in the not too distant future in keeping with the proposed five-year capital improvement program.

"Actually, Appleton is in a good position when it comes to having landfill area (the dump at Mackville) but I don't think we can expect to continue that type of open fill operation too much longer," Bues said.

Cause No Objections

Bues said if the City of Appleton built a properly designed incinerator plant, there would be no citizen objections. "There would be no chemical fumes, odor or fly ash," Bues said.

Eugene Franchett, executive director of the Fox Valley Planning Commission, said other cities in the region were also considering the possibility of constructing an incinerator.

"Neenah and some of the other communities are having problems and the policy committee of the Valley Planning Commission has given the technical committee the green light to take a look at the needs on a regional basis," Franchett said.

Bues said it was his understanding Neenah and Menasha have been operating an incinerator-landfill venture and are interested in one major incinerator plant for this region.

The plan commission went on record that the city not buy the land being offered.

Vacate Street

In other action, the commission gave conditional approval to the vacation of an unnamed street and alley on the city's far northwest side which has been earmarked for a $3 million luxury apartment development.

The commission was told the Milwaukee developers presently have an option on the 10-acre site. They reportedly are awaiting the city's action on their vacating request before making final construction plans.

In giving approval to the major apartment complex, the commission said the street-alley vacation proceedings should not become effective until the developers bring in final plans and pay special assessments totaling $1,700.

Who Brought on That Snow?

We are quite sure that anyone who got cold feet or wet heads at Sunday's Packer game has long since forgotten any discomfort if it ever was noticed at all. But we'd like to lay the blame for the weather exactly where it belongs. On all those out of state sports writers.

According to the majority of them, this area is at the north end of the dog sled run. It's a place where the populace spends its cultural winters fishing through the ice and everyone wears thermo underwear to and from the ice boat shuttle bus. Children are weaned on hot buttered rum to make downing their evening meal of seal blubber a little more palatable. The parkas, fur caps, hunting boots, long johns, raccoon coats and fur mittens worn to the stadium are the same ones we had to dry out over the wood stoves in our igloos and wear to work on Monday. And of course everyone in this part of Wisconsin carries that warming fluid in an inside pocket.

After all, how much can a Wisconsin weatherman stand? The only trouble is that the writers who brought on the day's sleet, snow and rain rated seats in the heated enclosed press box.

But is anyone bitter?—Who won?

McNamara Goofs Again

The reopening of the Badger gunpowder plant at Baraboo of course is good news to people living in that vicinity. Many have already indicated that they would prefer to work closer to home than their present jobs in Madison and elsewhere. But it raises some doubts about the effectiveness of all the cutting back Secretary McNamara is always promoting.

Certainly a great many military and defense programs are pork barrel projects. Congressmen are discouragingly blind to the unnecessary expenditure of funds in their own districts. And understandably many of them argue that if there is to be the expense anyway it might just as well be where they can get political profit as well as provide lucrative jobs for their own constituents. This may not always be the highest political statesmanship but it is human nature or at least congressional nature.

But in his efforts to cut down on expenditures—wholly worthy—Secretary McNamara seems to have forgotten some of the needs of the nation. Of course it was only this year that he finally conceded that the Viet Nam fracas was going to be "a long war." Apparently he was quite sincere in his earlier remarks that the United States was on the verge of not only winning but pulling out most of its troops. Nevertheless we confess to a certain lack of confidence in a Defense Department which provides for only one plant in the entire country equipped and operating for the manufacture of small arms ammunition—exactly the kind in increasing demand in Viet Nam.

Had it not been for the strike at this plant—the Olin Mathieson plant in East Alton, Illinois—the situation would not have come to the public's attention by the government's decision to reactivate the Badger factory. There have been reports from Viet Nam that some of the equipment issued in the last couple of years is inferior and does not hold up. How seriously is the strike at Olin going to handicap the supply of small arms ammunition—machine gun, rifle, tracer bullets and 20mm cannon shells—to the forces in Viet Nam? In what other essential fields is the government relying upon only one plant which could be either struck or sabotaged?

Faculty Prerogatives

A reader who noted the recent dispatches from Madison about the University of Wisconsin faculty vote on the question of controlling enrollment at the institution has asked a good question.

What business is it of the employees and teachers of the university, he said, to adopt resolutions on such issues that are essentially questions of public policy that are the proper province of the legislature and other elected representatives?

We agree. While the faculty view of what is desirable on such a fundamental matter of state government service is interesting, and newsworthy, we hope that it was not intended as a serious mandate to the governor or to the legislature or to the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education which is entrusted by statute with the duty and responsibility for judging such matters and recommending policy.

We doubt that a professor of biology, or nuclear physics, or agronomy, or whatever, is any better qualified to judge these questions than is the mayor of North Overshoe, Wis. The advice of the university administration would be useful and relevant. Conceivably a professor of education administration would have something to say that would entitle him to a respectful hearing from the officials finally responsible for such decisions. But the faculty as such has no more function here than in suggesting strategy for the coaches of the varsity football team.

Obviously the issue of size of enrollment relates to educational quality and the extra-academic benefits of university attendance. But it will be difficult to persuade most observant citizens, we must suppose, that there is a demonstrable difference between a student body of 35,000 and one of 40,000, as the deliberations of the faculty in amending an original faculty committee report would have us believe.

This incident is mostly important, perhaps, in reminding us of the necessity of an over-view of higher education administration problems which are rapidly becoming the most difficult and challenging and costly of the problems confronting the state. The vehicle is available in the Coordinating Committee. It was conceived 10 years ago for precisely such objective, independent judgments divorced from the fancies and prejudices and conveniences and subjective desires of the persons involved. It was reorganized and strengthened this year to assure its literal independence. Let such matters be referred to it, as an advisory agency likely to be heeded more seriously than is a report from a meeting representing a few hundred teachers after a brief and perfunctory explanation and discussion.

The Private Peace Mission

We doubt very much that the three men who are making an unauthorized trip to Hanoi on a private peace mission are likely to get very far in trying to convince Ho Chi Minh to call off the Viet Cong or even his own North Vietnamese troops.

In the first place Ho is now in the spot of having to bargain from weakness, the same sort of position the United States was in last spring. In the second place the three men have absolutely no status as far as representing the United States is concerned nor are they likely to gain it even if they do manage to talk Ho into a conference. The United States Constitution rather emphatically puts the management of our foreign affairs in the hands of the executive branch of the government. The three members of what is sometimes called "the new left" don't even have the permission of the Department of State for their tour.

One of the three, Herbert Aptheker, is a self-professed member of the Communist Party in the United States. Another is a university professor who has been a leader in anti-Viet Nam war propaganda, and the third is a student in leftist movements. Although there actually is a law prohibiting an individual from making any sort of deals with a foreign country, it has never been used. And the State Department's restriction on travel to countries it doesn't deem worthy has been under fire from a number of sources.

Those who would like to see the three drawn and quartered, charged with treason or any other available statute might take the time to consider that they really are examples of the wonders of the free world. There are no North Vietnamese opposed to the war coming to the United States seeking peace. In fact, the three Americans might just consider that little fact themselves. When they can persuade Ho Chi Minh to permit three North Vietnamese to lead demonstrations against the Red action in Viet Nam and to come to the United States to urge negotiations then they might gain more advocates of the philosophy of the new left.

Report on Appleton Public Schools

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Jan. 11, 1966.

Our City Schools commenced a new term on Monday of this week. The attention of every person who has the welfare of the community in view should be called to them. These interests are fundamental.

Our Common School System is the hope and glory of our country. We note the fact that our city schools improve with each year that passes. These best points on the subject would doubtless pronounce the last term a very successful one.

Comparisons are not always just or wise, but we would invite all who feel an interest in such things to visit the Second Ward Schools during the present term and decide for themselves.

Indeed, here is one sad defect. Parents and friends do not visit the schools enough. If this were done more, teachers would be encouraged of less and pupils encouraged more.

The First Ward School has a large attendance, and good order prevails in both departments. The examination in the Grammar School evinced thorough honesty and a good degree of independence. But there was a want of readiness and efficiency which will, doubtless, be remedied the next time of examination.

The Third Ward School has changed teachers too often, we think to promise well, but we think the future will change that.

It is sufficient commendation of the Primary and Intermediate Schools of the Second Ward to say that they fully sustain their former

Ho Chi Minh Defeated French And Believes He Can Beat U.S. Too

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

As the new year begins we're utterly lost in our basic understanding of our Viet Nam problem and all peace forecasts, unless we look at this scourge from the viewpoint of Ho Chi Minh. It's what the enemy thinks, not what we think, that counts.

Taylor

Our hopes and prayers that our list of war dead will not grow longer. President Johnson's willingness for a cease-fire, Pope Paul's peace appeals and the truceless truce at Christmas most naturally distract us from putting ourselves in Ho's place. So does reputation. We have here an example of good effects of continuing the same teachers who prove themselves skillful in their calling.

25 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, Dec. 31, 1940.

Charles Lowry, Omro, was appointed captain of the Winnebago County highway police to succeed Sheriff-Elect Julius G. Holtz. Edwin A. Harwood, Oshkosh, was appointed to the county police unit and George J. Ebel, Oshkosh, was named the new operator to replace Harry Zarling, who stepped into the job of undersheriff.

our knowledge of our own great power.

Ho thinks he can achieve an all-out defeat of the military forces of the United States. Tragically, our cease-fire hopes only confirm his wildest convictions and he cares no more for "world opinion" than a tiger does for a duck.

FIGHTING 19 YEARS

Ho has been fighting in this terrain for 19 years. He knows how difficult jungle wars are for modern armies. For six long years he fought the French with guerrillas. There's an ancient Chinese maxim that the only way you get unity with a tiger is when you get inside the tiger. And each time the French sought unity with Red Ho they encountered this relentless reality.

By the winter of 1952 Ho had organized large regular forces but had not committed them. This program began immediately after a decisive meeting with Mao Tse-tung in Peking on February 21, 1950.

When he threw in his regulars France reinforced her troops to 150,000, and by May, 1954, French regulars numbered more than 200,000, pivoted on the large defense complex at Dienbienphu.

Ho saw France become increasingly divided as her casualties mounted, and heard the world's appeals for a cease-fire reach a crescendo after Dienbienphu.

There are many differences in our favor today but Ho is an Asiatic despot, the loss of human life means nothing to him, time means nothing, and he regards our basic difficulties as essentially the same as France's.

The one great difference, from his viewpoint, would rest in whether the Vietnamese themselves could defeat him. And surely in Ho's own mind he passed this milestone two years ago last New Year's Eve. Yes, as long as that.

Two weeks after the event (Jan. 13, 1964) this column detailed this turning point, as such. The Diem assassinations had occurred. We had fore-cases of the improvements we could expect. Behind the scenes the war's largest military operation was mounted. But this long-awaited showdown was a total failure.

The key clash—or lack of it—came in the wooded Ben Suc region, 40 miles from Saigon. The French lost Indochina at Dienbienphu. The collapse at Ben Suc was the military loss of Viet Nam for the Vietnamese, although Washington was not reporting it that way.

HAMLET PROGRAM FAILS

The collapse included the collapse of the expanded "strategic hamlets" program we were betting on to work; the moving of peasants into places prepared for their protection.

In just two provinces below Saigon about 100,000 peasants fled back to their original homes, many condemning the United States for carrying them away from their own soil. The para-military civil guard and the self-defense corps went with them.

Now Ho, from his viewpoint, was back in the favorable position he had found himself in against the French. While the native elements could still be beefed up, he would have to be beaten, if at all, by a non-Asian, modern army in a world that would be calling for a cease-fire.

The louder this demand the more sure Ho is that he can end his war on his own terms. At worst, he knows the Western enemy would agree to approximately the same face-saving formula accepted at Geneva in 1952 after his plunge into Laos. This "solution" would be pegged on the word "neutralization." But, in South Viet Nam as it did in Laos, the word neutralization means communism—a Red take-over.

There is no "peace" in sight. At this stage, and supported by Red China, Ho's eyes say to us as plainly as if they had a tongue, "It is your life or mine."

Potomac Fever— by Jack Wilson

State's Taxation of Insurance Companies Comes Under Study

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A forthcoming report of the State Legislature's technical budget staff will revive echoes of one of the longest, most stubborn and perhaps the least understood struggles in Wisconsin taxation policy in modern times.

Wyngaard

The analysis will provide detailed data on the gradual transformation of the state laws in the taxation of banks which was concluded last year with the installation of a franchise method imposing liability for income taxation upon them and the savings and loan associations as their principal competitors.

An abstract has been filed with a new Legislative Council committee which has been assigned to review continuing tax problems in other fields and notably in the field of insurance underwriting. It shows that the avoidance of income tax liability under the previous laws which aroused such bitter indignation among liberal politicians for a couple of decades has been virtually eliminated through the succession of amendments in recent legislative sessions and the new franchise method alternative now effective for the first time on 1965 earnings.

through an accident of constitutional law the heavier taxation imposed upon all other elements of the community was difficult to refute. The explanation was that they were permitted to credit their operating costs against a relatively small net income base, through the constitutional exemption from taxation of their income from U.S. government securities. When bankers protested that they were often urged by the national government to buy such securities in the national interest, they didn't find many listeners. The cause was too sophisticated for popular consumption.

Gradually, as it appeared from the headlines, the banks decided that the fight wasn't worth it. When during the last two legislative sessions the budget deficit frightened the legislature into bolder revenue expedients, it was no longer practicable in a political sense to maintain the old rules. The franchise tax was adopted with relatively little fuss and will now be a permanent part of the revenue structure.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Precisely how this considerable turn about in state policy was achieved is not entirely clear. It will be hard to deny the claims of William Proxmire, now Wisconsin's senior U.S. senator, that he has some credit due for authorship of the idea. For he was principally responsible for introducing the issue to the political arena as far back as the early 1950's when he ran unsuccessfully for governor.

The repeated charges that the banks were avoiding

NOW INSURANCE?

A new Legislative Council committee will now try, it says, to make an objective study of comparable problems in the field of insurance carrier taxation.

This is a well-worn topic also, but the politicians have not been so eager to exploit it. Various studies have been made, some of them in a faint-hearted way. Nothing very substantial has yet resulted.

The range of insurance taxation, shot through with exceptions and exemptions and discrimination as it is, is a veritable can of worms, in the current political vernacular. There is the sticky question, to the campaigning politician, of the typical exemption of mutual companies, reflecting the state's general favoritism toward cooperatives. There is the obvious handicap provided for the competing stock company which must pay the state's premium levies. There are problems of discrimination as between the various lines of insurance, the risk of retaliation against Wisconsin domiciled companies doing business in other states, reciprocity and many others. The fact is also that the general public knows little about such matters and is not likely to respond.

Strictly Personal

We Perceive What We Are Taught to See

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

We used to think, in our naive way, that the act of perception consisted of two independent things: the perceiver and the thing perceived. The act of perception simply meant "seeing what was there."

Harris

Perhaps the most important advance in the behavioral sciences in our time has been the growing recognition that the perceiver is not just a passive camera taking a picture, but takes an active part in perception. He sees what experience has conditioned him to see.

We enter a restaurant, and six persons are sitting there. What do we see? Beyond the mere fact that there are six human beings? Do we all see the same picture, either individually or collectively?

A European will note that these are six Americans by their dress and attitudes. A woman entering the room will probably note that the six consist of two married couples, an older woman and a single man. A Southerner will see one man who could possibly be a light-skinned Negro.

A homosexual will single out one of the men as a fellow deviate. An anti-Semite will immediately label one of the couples as "Jewish." A salesman will divide the group into "prospects" and "duds." And the waiter, of course, does not see people at all, but a "station" and "food" and "drinks."

What perceiver, then, "sees what is there"? Nobody, of course. Each of us perceives what our past has prepared us to perceive. We select and distinguish, we focus on some objects and relationships, and we blur others, we distort objective reality to make it conform to our needs or hopes or fears or hates or envies or affections.

In the physical sciences, we have long been aware that the very act of examining and measuring some physical phenomenon changes the phenomenon itself; what the scientist sees during his experiment is not the same object that it would be if not under scrutiny.

Now we have begun to learn that the behavioral sciences contain this same subjective element: that our eyes and brains do not merely register some objective portrait of other persons or groups, but that our very act of seeing is warped by what we have been taught to believe, by what we want to believe, by what (in a deeper sense) we need to believe.

And this is the main reason that communication is so difficult: we are not disagreeing about the same thing, but about different things. We are not looking at the same people in the dining room, or on the picket-line, or around the conference table. How to correct this built-in warp may very well be the basic, and ultimate, problem of mankind's survival.

Modern Quarantine Sign Now Red, Reads 'Occupancy Prohibited'

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — A new sign has been designed for labeling unfit housing.

A quarantine sign of red cardboard reading "Occupancy Prohibited" replaces the "Condemned" sign previously used by city building inspectors.

The "Prohibited" sign warns against occupancy while a house has uncorrected plumbing, heating or electrical code violations.

Meaningful Settlement Unlikely in Viet Nam

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) —Even if President Johnson succeeds in his spectacular efforts to get Vietnamese peace talks started — and there is no sign he will — prospects for any meaningful settlement are dim.

His efforts, if unsuccessful, at least will do much to mute criticism here and abroad about his administration's willingness to seek a peaceful settlement and halt the killing.

But it is hard to see how there could be any final agreement between the United States and the North Vietnamese Communists without one side or the other backing down and admitting defeat, even without saying so.

Keep Promise
Last April Johnson said he was willing to have "unconditional discussions" with the Reds but he also said he intended to keep this country's "promise" to the South Vietnamese to preserve their independence.

He said, in explaining that the "appetite of aggression is never satisfied," that "we will not withdraw either openly or under the cloak of meaningless agreement."

He added that "peace demands an independent Viet Nam."

But the Communist answer to that was: The United States must withdraw its forces from South Viet Nam and let the people of both Viet Nams settle their internal affairs themselves.

Ho Chi Minh Effort
President Ho Chi Minh of

FIX BROKEN DENTURES AT HOME IN 15 MIN. with PLATE-WELD
Amazing Plate-Weld repairs breaks, cracks and replaces teeth. Simply flow on—put together. Plate-Weld uses the most successful method devised for home repairs. Works perfectly every time or money back. Get money saving $2.95 size or the $1.95 size at all drug counters.

North Viet Nam has just repeated that position in the midst of Johnson's efforts of the past few days to get the Communists to a conference table.

If there should be agreement by the Communists now to discuss peace — or just to discuss ways to discuss peace — there might be a halt of some kind in the shooting for the time being.

But the anguished question is how could either side agree to a final settlement — in view of what each side has said its terms were — without retreating from the very conditions it said were necessary for peace?

If peace demands an independent South Viet Nam, as Johnson said, only a dreamer could imagine South Viet Nam remaining independent very long once American troops were withdrawn.

Ready for Grab
The Communists wouldn't have to invade from the north. Their arm, the Viet Cong, would still be in South Viet Nam, either under cover or in the open, ready to grab the South Viet Nam government when they could.

No one can reasonably say the Viet Cong would not already, and perhaps long ago, have seized all of Viet Nam if it had not been for the presence of American troops.

The South Vietnamese government was so incapable of defending itself the United States had to move into the war itself.

If the North Vietnamese agreed now that there could be a settlement without American withdrawal, they'd be backing down, since they have insisted there can be no withdrawal without the opposite happening.

The two sides have put themselves into such a box with their opposite statements and conditions that any real agreement is bound to look distant if not impossible any time soon.

Parents Made Responsible For Malicious Acts of Child

Gov. Warren Knowles has signed a new law which makes neighbor's window, you are not a parent or guardian liable for the damages resulting from the window. You will probably feel a willful, malicious or wanton act of his child up to $500. You as a but, the law says the neighbor parent may be wondering how much this extends your liability, from any assets the son may or as a property owner, you have and then collection would be delayed until he reaches 21. But if your son takes a dislike to a neighbor and tosses a stone through his picture window, then the law says you must pay.

First of all, it does not change the old rule that a parent is not up to $500. Even under the old generally responsible for the rules of law, you could be held liable for the child's acts if you child's acts remain unchanged. your son digs in and clouts a knave or should have known that, If you give a loaded gun to a sandlot home run that not only he was engaging in dangerous child knowing he is not compe-conduct or had vicious and dangerous tendencies, and it is still possible to sue under this rule with no ceiling on the amount of damages. The chief effect of the new law then is to eliminate the necessity for showing that the parent should have anticipated and acted to prevent the destructive act of he child.

Act of Vandalism
In other words, even though Junior is a little angel all his life and gives you no reason to fear he may misbehave, you to a neighbor and tosses a stone will be responsible for his first through his picture window, and possibly only act of vandalism.

Other situations in which you may be responsible for your child's acts remain unchanged. If you give a loaded gun to a

YES ☐ NO ☐

No. It is still too high, but actually it has been declining for the past 20 years. One still hears that there is one divorce for every three marriages in the United States—a ratio that has not been true since 1946 when so many World War II marriages broke up at the close of the war. Even then the figures did not include the many millions of happy marriages that appeared in neither the marriage nor the divorce statistics for that year.

The divorce rate is still higher than it should be because of so many very young, poorly prepared married pairs. For a close look at some of the problems future husbands and wives will be facing, read the pull-no-punches booklet, "Facing Facts of Married Life." the TAX* on your phone bill has been CUT

*The Federal Excise Tax on your telephone service has been cut from 10% to 3%.

There is a change in your telephone bill this month. You'll like it because it means more money in your pocket starting with this bill.

The sections of the Excise Tax Reduction Act of 1965 which apply to telephone service go into effect January 1. This means a reduction of the federal telephone tax from 10% to 3% — even lower if you use some services from which the tax has been entirely removed.

This is just the first reduction. Another 1% reduction will be lifted from your bill each January 1 up to January 1, 1969, when the tax will be gone.

Your telephone company has collected this tax for the government for many years and we are glad it has been reduced. As you receive your lower telephone bills in 1966, we are sure you'll be pleased too.

We have felt for a long time that your telephone is a necessity, especially in today's Space Age. Legislative action to remove telephone service from the "luxury" list confirms our belief and the belief of thousands of Americans who sought its removal.

Now we are looking forward to 1969 when we can announce the complete removal of the tax from your phone bill.

majority of the people of Red Cliff."

Gokee, Bresette, and their wives charged in December that Misses Hunt and Rothman refused to cooperate with the Community Action Program (CAP). They said they were resigning from CAP and from the Red Cliff Housing Authority, two self-help projects awaiting $348,000 in federal aid.

Bresette's wife, Blanche, 44, read to the council a letter from the Office of Economic Opportunity which she said identified her as supervisor of the VISTA project. "I charge these girls with misconduct, irresponsibility and insubordination," she said, "and no matter what you decide these girls are not coming back here."

Gokee's wife, Victoria, 34, read a letter she said she intended to mail today to the President and other federal and state officials, contending that Red Cliff was no longer qualified for antipoverty help because of increased employment in the area.

Roye replied that tribal housing and sanitation remained in need of considerable improvement.

Henry G. Daley, the factory worker who is current tribal chairman, said action on the expulsion petition could be taken after a five-day period.

The vote inviting the coeds to return followed the lines of a 5-0 decision Dec. 20 that was overruled when Gokee and Bresette, absent at that time, argued that proper notice for a special meeting had not been given. One of the nine council members was absent Monday night and Daley votes only in case of ties.

The two volunteers said before they were withdrawn Dec. 14 by VISTA supervisors that they wanted to remain on the reservation, where they felt they were needed.

Mrs. Gokee and Mrs. Bresette had charged the coeds refused to cooperate with CAP projects and instead set up a youth club which had little value. VISTA officials said the youth project was a means of encouraging Indian pupils to continue their education.

Richard L. Rafferty was found guilty of armed robbery with a dangerous weapon after $81 was taken during a Madison service station holdup.

Dane County Judge William A. Buehler sentenced Rafferty to a prison term not to exceed 10 years after he pleaded guilty to the charge.

Rafferty's attorney contended that the defendant had been denied the right of counsel before his trial and the pellet gun used in the holdup was not a dangerous weapon.

The high court rejected both arguments.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities reopened its Ku Klux Klan hearing today and got the customary Fifth Amendment response from the first witness, John D. Swenson of Bossier City, La.

However, it was disclosed that another Klan witness, Royal D. Young, had testified freely at a closed committee session last July. Chairman Edwin D. Willis, D-La., said the committee has voted to release Young's testimony.

Swenson was identified by a committee investigator as the grand dragon of the original Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. He declined to answer all questions, pleading possible self-incrimination under the Constitution's Fifth Amendment and also the Fourth Amendment.

Swenson was accompanied by James R. Venable, who identified himself as an Atlanta Ga., lawyer.

Fire Destroys UW Laboratory

MADISON (AP)—Fire destroyed a laboratory and caused smoke damage to rooms and equipment in McArdle cancer research laboratories on the University of Wisconsin campus early today.

No one was in the building when fire broke out in a sixth floor facility in the 10-story building.

University officials were unable to immediately determine the loss but said all contents of the laboratory were lost. An investigation into the cause was planned.

The facility was opened in 1964. Fire department officials said fireproof walls and other preventive equipment kept the fire from spreading. An automatic alarm device alerted a watchman in another building.

Eleva Girl, 2, Dies From Exhaust Fumes

PRAIRIE DU SAC (AP)—A 2-year-old girl was asphyxiated today when she and a sister were overcome by fumes from a faulty exhaust as they rode in the back seat of their parents' car.

The dead girl was Judy Isaakson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Isaakson of Eleva, who left their northwestern Wisconsin home early today for a trip to Madison.

Isaakson said that he stopped at a wayside on Highway 12 two miles north of Prairie du Sac, about three hours after leaving home, for a cup of coffee from a vacuum bottle in the car, and discovered that Judy and 8-year-old Jan were unconscious.

The Isaaksons gave both children mouth-to-mouth resuscitation but Judy did not respond. Sauk County Patrolman MacArthur Lang and another officer arrived to help, but Judy was dead on arrival at a nearby hospital.

A third Isaakson child riding in the front seat with his parents was unaffected.

Lang said the automobile had a faulty exhaust system.

a concerted drive by the administration and its key supporters in Congress. This raised speculation whether President Johnson was not risking his remarkably durable popularity with business leaders.

But Johnson himself was silent. And the most sensitive index of business psychology, the stock market, reflected neither hysteria nor loss of confidence.

After Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara ordered Monday that military contracts for future structural steel delivery be shifted to firms which have not boosted prices, steel shares declined a bit—but this was in a market which already was moving irregularly down.

Inflationary Move

When Inland Steel announced its price rise, Chairman Gardner Ackley of the President's Council of Economic Advisers described this move as unwarranted and inflationary—the same criticism he had made of Bethlehem's.

Administration officials have denied emphatically any intention to impose price controls. The new orders which went out to purchasing officers actually were no more than strong directives to buy where the government gets the best price.

This could be a powerful weapon, however, for the government directly or indirectly consumes about one-fourth of the nation's output of structural steel framing.

"Lowest Price"

Following McNamara's lead, Undersecretary of Commerce LeRoy Collins directed buying offices in his department "to purchase structural steel at the lowest possible price." Like McNamara, he instructed them to see that prime contractors impose the same policy on their subcontractors.

The General Services Administration, which manages public buildings construction, used similar language in an order affecting not only direct and indirect government outlays but also any building financed by federal grants-in-aid.

The federal highway administrator, Rex M. Whitton, spelled out the new rules in telegrams to field offices of the Bureau of Public Roads.

Use Authorized

U.S. troops have been authorized for some time to use tear gas in special instances, and they used it Sunday in the Mekong Delta operation, apparently with little effect on the Viet Cong. The use of tear gas by the Koreans was the first indication they had received such instructions.

2 Milwaukee Priests Among 13 'Silenced'

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Two Milwaukee Roman Catholic priests who have been active in civil rights demonstrations will be listed among 13 "silenced priests" in a special Jan. 8 issue of Ave Maria, a Catholic weekly magazine.

Rev. James E. Groppi and the Rev. William Whelan will be named in an article devoted to the controversy over clerical freedom of political speech and action.

The magazine, published on the University of Notre Dame campus, said the 13 were restricted in their action of their teaching "because of some involvement in the struggle for civil rights or in what is loosely and carelessly called 'the peace movement.'"

Fathers Groppi and Whelan were ordered by the Milwaukee chancery to cease participation in the 3½ day boycott of Milwaukee public schools in protest of alleged de facto segregation last October.

Father Groppi has taken part in other demonstrations and Archbishop William E. Cousins of Milwaukee, who was in Rome during the school boycott, said on his return that he "admired" the priest's work and added, "I certainly don't intend to punish him."

Knowles Pushing For Action on Vocational Plan

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Gov. Warren P. Knowles is prodding the State Department of Vocational Education for speedy action on the drafting of a plan for the reorganization of the vocational school district pattern of the state and the enlargement of the vocational school tax base in accordance with a 1965 act of the Legislature.

The governor will make a personal appearance before the board at its next meeting Jan. 24 to urge maximum effort for the enlargement of post-high school job training programs along the lines the Legislature accepted in one of his major proposals of last year.

The governor reportedly will propose April 1 as the deadline for the presentation of a vocational school district draft to the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education.

The governor also will ask the Coordinating Committee to form a special committee of its members, with a special staff, to refine the working draft as presented by the vocational school administration, and is prepared to name a high prestige advisory committee of leaders of the business community and education to assist, it was learned here today.

Knowles sees it, and as he has said in a series of public statements and legislative messages, the expansion and improvement of job training opportunity is the single most urgent need in Wisconsin education.

The governor has told educators lately that he is also more convinced than before that the enlargement of the Wisconsin skilled labor market through such improvement of the educational services of Wisconsin is essential to the goal of industrial growth and the recruitment of new business enterprise to the state.

Trained Labor

Knowles has told friends about some of his experiences during his first year in office in consulting with business managers, he is expected to bring a guest for of corporations now operating outside the state and considering Wisconsin plant location. The governor has told educators lately that he is also more convinced than before that the enlargement of the Wisconsin skilled labor market through such improvement of the educational services of Wisconsin is essential to the goal of industrial growth and the recruitment of new business enterprise to the state.

Each year quartets from area schools compete for cash awards, donated to the school to assist in the music program. Plans will also be outlined for a concerted membership campaign as the organization begins its 13th year. Each member will be expected to bring a guest for all meetings this month.

Following the business session, the chorus will sing old selections and rehearse new numbers. Visitors are welcome at any of the practice sessions which are held each Tuesday at plant location, he has reported.

The board of vocational education has named a committee group entertained at 15 functions besides singing for shuttling plan for the organization at area hospitals and institutions of the state into about 20 districts for administration of annual show and competed in chorus competition at Oshkosh.

A new program, adopted by the incentives in the form of more unit, is to help support a

Gov. Knowles Names Former Assemblyman To State Commission

MADISON (AP) — Lawrence M. Hagen of Superior, former Republican assemblyman, was appointed to the Grain and Warehouse Commission by Gov. Warren P. Knowles Monday.

Hagen was named to a three-year term to succeed Mrs. Paul H. Akers of Superior, whose term expires Feb. 7.

Knowles also appointed Alfred Wall of Sparta to the Banking Review Board to succeed Bernard J. Lontkowski of Pulaski, whose term expired Saturday.

Wall is a Sparta banker and past president of the State Bankers Association.

Series on Wisconsin Tax Changes Will Begin Jan. 10

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A series of articles written by a widely known tax expert and designed to help individuals prepare clear and complete Wisconsin income tax returns was announced today by The Associated Press.

The series will begin Monday, Jan. 10, in The Post-Crescent.

The series of 12 articles, covering a number of special fields as well as general problems, was developed by Norman E. Schley of Waukesha, an authority on taxes and estate planning who has done similar series for AP member newspapers in several past years.

This year's edition will provide brief narrative descriptions of the revised tax returns, with clarification and explanation by the question-and-answer method, based on problems most often noted by Schley in his private practice.

Schley, a graduate of Carroll College who received his legal training at Marquette University, has been a certified public accountant since 1933. He has appeared as a tax expert on radio and television, and is the author of a number of works on taxes and estates.

He currently is a director of the National Association of Accountants, Milwaukee Chapter, 12, and a director and secretary of the Wisconsin Society of Certified Public Accountants and a past district governor of Kiwanis International.

Sturgeon Bay Bridge Plan Will be Studied

Meeting Scheduled To Discuss Trades School District

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — State officials including Gov. Warren P. Knowles have scheduled two conferences this month with Door county and Sturgeon Bay officials about public facilities improvements in Door county.

Assemblyman Lawrence Johnson of Door and Kewaunee counties Monday completed arrangements for a meeting of county and Sturgeon Bay officials on Jan. 24 with the state board of vocational and adult education about the desire of the county for the formation of a Door county vocational school district under the terms of a recently enacted state law.

The county's only vocational school program now is that operated by the city of Sturgeon Bay, which emphasizes mostly night school classes.

Johnson said he also has scheduled a meeting here on Jan. 19 with Gov. Knowles and state and local administrative officials to explore the possibilities of improving the bridge facilities over Sturgeon Bay in that principal Door county municipality.

One of the problems faced by the county is the need for improvement of the railroad bridge recently taken over by the city to assure its continued operation, and the financing problems that will be involved.

Another is the limited load capacity of the highway bridge across the canal. Johnson said the hope of the county is for the ultimate authorization of another public bridge to provide assurance of reliable connections between the northern and southern sections of the county.

There is also a problem of alignment between the existing highway bridge and the old railroad bridge that requires correction for the safety of boat traffic, he said.

Live Within Your Income

New Years Good Time to Evaluate Spending Habits

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Most of us will remember to our very last day some of the catch-phrases we used to hear around the house when we were little children.

I remember that on New Year's Day, my grandmother used to make us little ones go, in turn, and stand in front of a mirror and take a good look at the person we were going to have to live with for the rest of that year. "Do you want to go on being the same person?" she would ask. It was a trying experience — and led to some very healthy resolutions.

A friend of mine, now in his 60's still reacts to a catchphrase he grew up with — the term "cold cash." To this good day, he still empties his pockets of small change once a week and puts it in the refrigerator. He's an enterprising businessman, with a modern approach to most things in life.

But this early concept of "cold cash" is a holdover he refuses to give up. He laughs about it, but he still uses the refrigerator as a home bank until he accumulates enough to deposit in his regular savings account.

What I'm leading up to in these first few days of 1966 is this: take a New Year's look at some of your own little habits and attitudes, and see how they play a part in your daily living, for better or worse. Let's take the area of money, to start with. It's my favorite subject because it influences so many other areas of living.

Consider Extravagances

Naturally you want to reorganize the family budget at the beginning of the new year. So let's ask: "What should you look for?" Well, Count and $1 to Dollar Bank in care of The Post-Crescent.

prides and prejudices — the little ways in which you spend — and don't feel you have to confess them to anybody. Just evaluate them.

Are you the gal or guy who says "I can't afford that" — but spends some of the grocery money on a spray-bottle of perfume or a taxi to keep a business appointment? Are you the man who likes to pick up the tab when friends join you at a restaurant?

Do you lecture the children on thrift — and then call your relatives long-distance when you don't really need to?

Too Many Clothes?

Are you the man — or woman — with an executive job who haunts the inexpensive lunch counters four days a week and then spends a fabulous amount in messenger services because it looks impressive to clients?

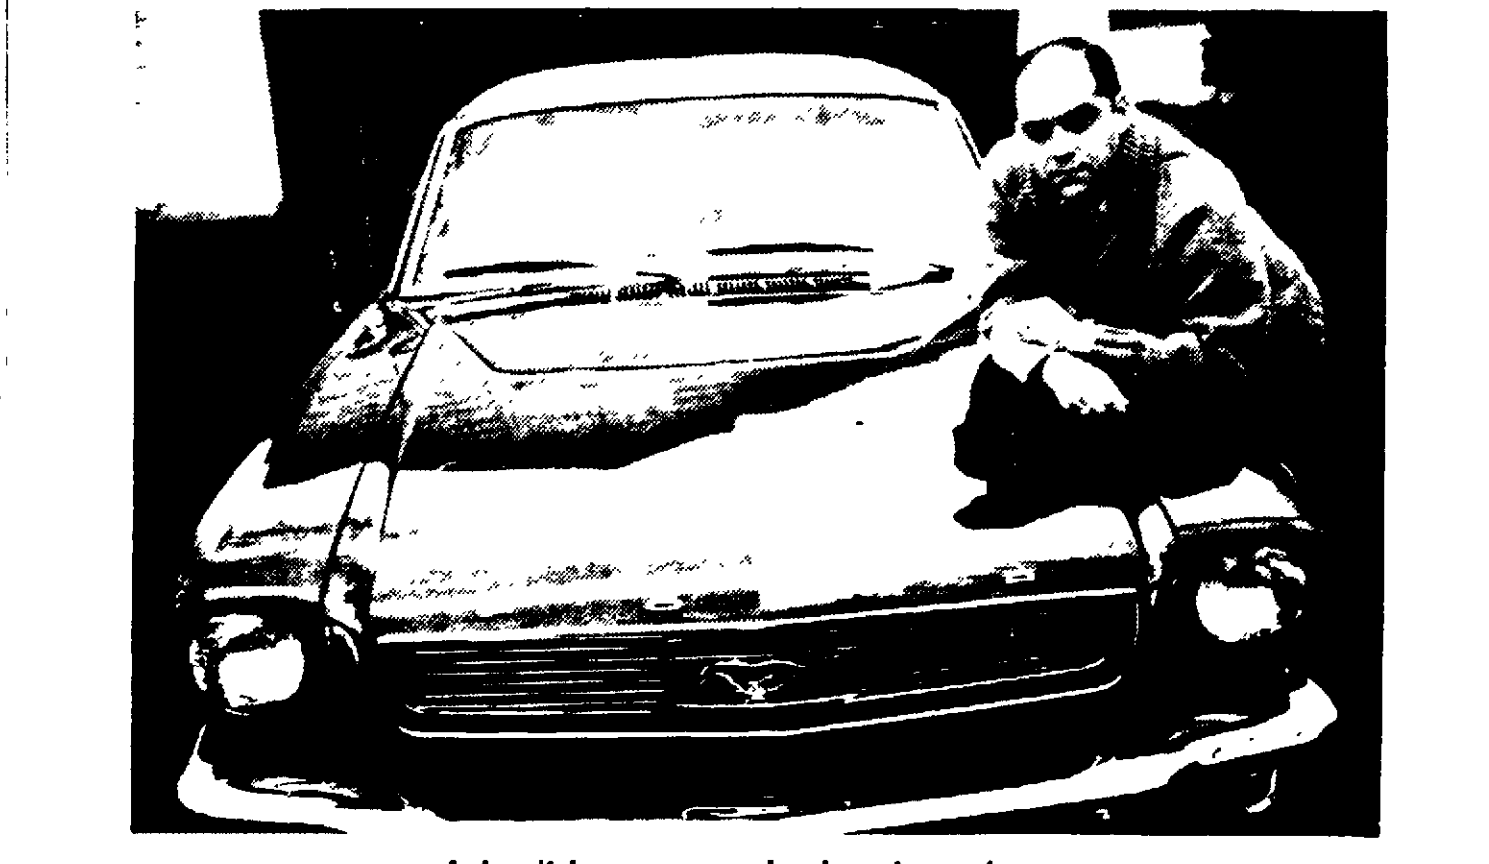

Do you buy a lot of clothes you don't need, under the heading "I owe it to my husband to look well-dressed?"

I know quite a number of married couples who quarrel over big expenditures — and quietly go along supporting their own little extravagances. And let me make this point clear — I'm not saying you should or should not give up your private areas of spending.

I just say look the situation over, and see whether what you're doing is really worth what you're paying for it. There may come a year — and 1966 may be it — when you decide to transfer the small extravagances into a sounder family plan for some larger — and more meaningful — objectives.

For Mary Feeley's new book, "Let's Make Every Dollar Count," send $1 to Dollar Bank in care of The Post-Crescent.

Horse Sense—and the Mustang Six

I don't know much about engines.

If mine's smooth, powerful and gives great gas mileage, I'm satisfied.

That's why I got a Mustang Six.

You don't have to be an engineer to appreciate the Mustang Six. Just get comfortable in one of those deep-foam bucket seats fire up that husky 200-cu in. powerplant — and let yourself go.

And you have to be an investment banker to realize you've made a great buy. Standard Mustang Six luxury includes all vinyl upholstery, plush wall-to-wall carpeting, padded instrument panel and many other extras at no extra cost.

Sound sweet? Mustang makes lots of nice sounds. Optional stereo-sonic tape is one. Another is money jingling in your pocket thanks to Mustang Six's meager appetite for gasoline.

See for yourself. Stop in at your Ford Dealer's and test-drive America's runaway success car.

New Shows Promise More Comedy for 1966

It's Same Old Format in Variation;
No Plans for Single Drama Programs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — As far as one can see from the New Year's Day peak, comedy will continue to rule the network television channels at least for another year.

Nearly half of the current prime evening time offerings are designed to produce laughter. And, if press releases and news leaks about next September's product are accurate, the percentage will continue about the same. Out of 34 releases received in the past month or so, 16 announce comedy projects: eight, action-adventure; five, westerns and five series, ranging from science fiction to drama.

If ABC's forthcoming TV spoof of a comic-book character, "Batman," catches on, it promises to unleash the usual flood of reasonably exact facsimiles. Already on the studio docks are "The Green Hornet" and "The Perils of Pauline," plus a project called "Sedgewick Hawk Styles... Prince of Danger," which is set in Victorian London and has all the earmarks of a Sherlock Holmes burlesque.

3 New Laughs

"Run, Jack, Run," concerning two young men wandering around the country, seems to be "Route 66" played for laughs; "The Clumsys" is situation comedy built around an accident-prone couple, and "Daphne" concerns a jet-set widow who retreats to life in suburbia.

One big star name is involved in a pilot, "The Jean Arthur Show," in which the former motion picture star plays a woman lawyer battling things out with her son, who has joined a rival firm. Then there is Tammy Grimes playing "My Twin Sister," and a series-carved out of Stephen Potter's "Gamesmanship" and "Lifemanship" books—called "School for Scoundrels."

A number of successful films have spawned television series ideas, including "From Here to Eternity," "Shane" and "High Noon." The latter has been remodeled so that the hero will be the son of the movie marshal, Will Kane, memorably played by Gary Cooper.

Suspense Series

Suspense writer Eric Ambler has dreamed up a new action series named after one of his best books, "Journey Into Fear." This will undoubtedly involve a lot of spy stuff as will also "The Man who Never Was." "Stranded" revolves about 120 passengers of a crash-landed plane in the jungle.

Still another nominee for network attention is a science fiction series called "Star Trek." There is also a TV adaptation of "Three Coins in a Fountain" and "The Sweet Life," in which Bobby Darin plays an American expatriate living it up on the French Riviera.

There are neither dramatic anthologies—each show a self-contained story without continuing heroes—nor variety shows in the list of candidates. However, it is expected that Garry Moore will be returning to television on a regular basis in some variety-type format.

According to my opaque crystal ball, the next 12 months of television will be practically indistinguishable from the past 12. If that makes a happy New Year—well, enjoy it.

Rod Steiger At Peak of Film Career

Most of His Movies
Made on Location
Out of Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sometimes it pays to get out of town. Case in point: Rod Steiger, who stands at the peak of his 14-year film career though he hasn't made a film in a Hollywood studio for half that time.

Steiger owns a house at Malibu but seldom sees it. He makes pictures all over the map. Among his recent ones: "Doctor Zhivago," filmed in Spain; "A Time of Indifference," "Hands on the City" and "And a Man Came," based on the life of the late Pope John, all in Italy.

"I made 'The Loved One' here, but not in a studio," said Steiger, splitting a hair. He played Joy Boy in the necrophilic comedy which filmed entirely on locations.

His Big Break

Steiger also made "The Pawnbroker" in New York, and that has provided the principal thrust to his career. He won best-actor honors at the Berlin film festival and is likely to be in Academy contention.

"The Pawnbroker" has prompted Hollywood producers to view Steiger in a new light: as a starring lead, not just a character actor.

At 40, the actor's looks are beginning to catch up to his age. He has always seemed mature, a fact that almost broke up his romance with actress Claire Bloom before it started. One of her first questions after they met: "How old are you — 44?" Steiger was 34 at the time.

The "Lady" Gets a James Bond right to the chin as Agent 007 (Sean Connery) sees through his adversary's feminine disguise. This is one of the scenes in the movie version of Ian Fleming's "Thunderball," currently playing at the Viking Theater in Appleton and the Raulf in Oshkosh.

Cargo Record Set Fox Cities In Ontario Port

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP) — The port of Hamilton has set a cargo tonnage record for the sixth consecutive year with more than 10 million tons moved in 1965.

Joseph Lanza, chairman of the Hamilton harbor commissioners, said the final tally for the year is not yet complete but the total was at least 913,000 tons more than the 1964 record. It was also the largest increase since the St. Lawrence Seaway opened in 1959, he said.

'The Volga' Tops on TV Slate Tonight

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 (Channels 2-12) — "The Volga" on CBS Reports is a comprehensive view of a hitherto unseen Russia, filled with startling contrasts. Producer Gene DePoris and his crew, and commentator Marvin Kalb, spent nearly two months in Russia filming this show. All the film was brought back to New York and edited there. "There was no censorship, but we were watched," DePoris told TV Scout. After a beautiful opening scene, with a poetic essay on the river, the show leaves the "picture postcard" Russia for a trip to the heartland, the collective farm area. (Color)
